Good Clothes

Did you ever see anything handsomer than this "Blue Gray"?

—If I could only pick this clothing department up in my hand, and just give every man in Alliance a glimpse of these new Spring materials—

—The clothing manager is enthusiastic—
—He has a right to be.

The writer wishes this advertisement could pick this Norton Clothing Department up bodily and bring it to the eye-attention of every man who wants a new suit—

—The materials are so splendid
The variety is so extraordinary
The values are so unusual—

And the determination and ability is here to satisfy every man

—We haven't talked price—
—We could talk every price—

THE ALLIANCE DAILY HERALD

Demand for Daily Newspaper in Alliance to be Met for One Month at Least

FIRST ISSUE, MARCH 16, 1912

Yielding to repeated and urgent requests to establish a daily newspaper in Alliance, The Herald Publishing Company has decided to make the experiment for one month, commencing Saturday, March 16, and continuing till Monday, April 15. The reason for selecting this particular period to try the venture one month is that, on account of the union revival meetings which are to be commenced next Sunday, a full account of which will be published in the daily, a large number of extra subscribers can be secured. We are planning to print one sermon complete in each issue after the first.

While the daily will give full account of these meetings, its news will not be confined to them by any means. We will give the usual quota of local news, besides state and general news to some extent.

The daily will be strictly nonpartisan. If politics are discussed, it will be from an independent standpoint.

The Alliance Daily Herald will be published one calendar month, daily except Sunday, making twenty-six issues. The subscription price will be 5 cents per single copy, 15 cents per week, and 50 cents for the entire month. We will print some extra copies of the first issue so that persons who are unable to send us their subscriptions on or before Saturday of this week may have their subscriptions begin with the first issue until the supply of extra copies has been exhausted.

We invite all readers of The Herald to subscribe for the daily immediately and call the attention of their friends to the same, or what will be still better, send in the subscriptions of your friends with your own. Write names and post office addresses plainly and enclose check or money order for sums of one dollar or more. Remittances of less than one dollar may be sent in one or two-cent postage stamps. Address HERALD PUBLISHING COMPANY, Alliance, Nebraska.

"POLLY" A HIT

The Aringtons Score Another Success at the Opera House

That such a large house turned out in the face of a fierce blizzard to witness the Arington Stock Co. in "Polly of the Circus," at the Phelan Opera House on Wednesday night, is a high compliment—and it was a compliment not unplaced, for it was a splendid performance of a delightful play. The new people in the company established themselves at once as prime favorites.

Tonight the play will be "Little Torment," and Friday night the rattling merry comedy, "The Man in Black." There will be a matinee Saturday and on Saturday evening "St. Elmo" will be given.

The company will close its engagement with the performance on Monday night of James J. Corbett's great starring play of "Pals."
